CATALOGUE BY JOHN W. HASELTINE.

In introducing this catalogue to the reader it is scarcely necessary to notice any particular pieces. Collectors will find the Indian stone implements we describe to be in the finest possible condition, varied in material and in many instances rare for the locality, unusual shapes, objects of a character seldom seen, and all of superior workmanship, in fact, the best examples of the Indian Stone Age from the States of Ohio and Indiana that has ever been offered for public competition. Those from the New England States and the West are selected specimens, collected as representative examples of the locality. The collection is remarkable for the almost entire absence of defective specimens. What few exceptions are catalogued will be found to be desirable on account of their rarity, and are such as would be extremely difficult to improve. Knowing the diversity of opinion existing between collectors and writers respecting the adaptability or usage of the many objects of Indian stone relics, and the designated terms applied to each, I have endeavored, to the best of my ability to arrange, and classify them in such a way that their forms may be readily detected by a perusal of the catalogue.

The Egyptian pottery described within are from a newly discovered Catacomb found near Alexandria, Egypt, just previous to the present revolt, and was imported by myself. All the pottery catalogued is guaranteed as genuine, with exception of the three mound builders' funeral urns (Nos. 312, 313 and 314), which have a painted porcelain surface; for this reason, solely, I am inclined to doubt, although I have been assured by well-informed collectors that pottery of this material is sometimes met with.

Respectfully,

JOHN W. HASELTINE.

BANNER STONES,

Or so-called Gorgets, Pendants, Amulets, &c.

- 79 Fulton co., O. Oblong and flat. All four sides proportionately concaved, and terminating at corners into four rounded points, two perforations, one in. apart and equally divided from centre line. Slate. Perfect. Rare form.  $4\frac{1}{4} \times 3$ .
- 80 Seneca co., O. Similar, but only slightly curved. Purple slate or soapstone.  $3\frac{1}{2} \times 2$ .
- 81 Seneca co., O. Diamond shape. Points rounded. 2 perforations,  $2\frac{1}{4}$  inches apart. One hole inclined and drilled from both sides. Soapstone.  $4\frac{1}{4} \times 2\frac{5}{8}$ .
- 82 Seneca co., O. Upper part triangular and gradually sloping to lower end, which is straight, sharp edges, smoothed off on all five points, three perforations, one at upper and two at lower ends.  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. long,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. wide at top, and  $1\frac{1}{4}$  at lower ends. Slate. Unusual form. Rare.
- 83 Fulton co., O. Longitudinal sides concaved. Upper end straight and the lower end slightly convexed, one perforation 1 in. from top. Soapstone.  $4 \times 1\frac{5}{8}$ .
- 84 Fulton co., O. In shape somewhat resembling a spoon. One perforation. Purple slate.  $3\frac{1}{8}$  in. long.
- 85 Fulton co., O. An object which has been probably adapted to some practicable use, such as a knife sharpener. 2 in. wide in centre and gradually rounded down to  $\frac{1}{2}$  in. width at ends. Two perforations, 3 in. apart, one point defective. Length 7 in. Slate.
- 86 Fulton co., O. An object which is an exact imitation of the lid of a coffin, but flat. No perforations.  $4\frac{1}{2}$  inches long. Very rare.

- 87 Fulton co., O. Sides concaved, sharpened to an edge on one end, one hole, probably used as a dresser or hand chopper. Brownish soapstone.  $3\frac{3}{4}$  inches long.
- 88 Fulton co., O. Bottom side flat, upper side oval, two holes. Slate. 4 in. long.
- 89 Fulton co., O. Somewhat similar to preceding, except that under side is rounded and two perforations wider apart. Slate. 4 in. long.
- 90 Seneca co., O.  $\frac{7}{8}$  in. wide at top, perpendicular sides, inclining outward, and terminating at a width of  $1\frac{3}{8}$  in. at bottom, two diagonal holes drilled at right and left angles. Soapstone.  $3\frac{1}{4}$ .
- 91 Seneca co., O. Similar to preceding, one perforation only,  $\frac{1}{8}$  in. from top edge. Slate.  $3\frac{1}{8}$  in.
- 92 Henry co., O. Similar, but larger, two holes, one of them being unfinished. Slate. 4 in.
- 93 Seneca co., O. Similar, one perforation with a circle line around the hole on each side, notched at top. Soapstone. 4 in.
- 94 Seneca co., O. Similar, but all edges and points smoothed off, one hole. Slate.  $4\frac{1}{2}$ .
- 95 Allen co., Ind. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $3\frac{5}{8}$  in.
- 96 Fulton co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $3\frac{3}{8}$ .
- 97 Henry co., O. Uniform width and length, square side and ends. One hole. Slate.  $3\frac{5}{8} \times 1\frac{7}{8}$ .
- 98 Henry co., O. Similar, but end not perfectly square. One hole. Soapstone.  $4 \times 1\frac{7}{8}$ .
- 99 Seneca co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $3\frac{7}{8} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ .
- 100 Seneca co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $3\frac{3}{8} \times 1\frac{3}{8}$ .
- 101 Seneca co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $4\frac{1}{2} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ .
- 102 Seneca co., O. Similar. One hole, sides slightly concaved and ends rounded. Soapstone.  $4 \times 1\frac{7}{8}$ .
- 103 Fulton co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $3\frac{3}{4} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ .
- 104 Fulton co., O. Similar. One hole. Soapstone.  $4\frac{1}{2} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ .
- 105 Fulton co., O. Straight sides and ends. Two small holes. Soapstone.  $4\frac{1}{2} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ .
- 106 Henry co., O. One side concaved and sharpened to an edge, found by F. Scofield. No perforations. Slate.  $4\frac{3}{4}$  inches long. Very rare.
- 107 Henry co., O. A very odd, interesting, and perfect object of Indian workmanship, found by J. Tate, of Napoleon. Resembling in shape a pendulum, having parallel sides, slightly inclining outward, and abruptly projecting at the lower end into two sharp points, oval from point to point at lower end. One hole near top. Dark slate. Very rare.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  inches long.
- 108 De Kalb co., Ind. An implement somewhat similar to the preceding, has no projecting points, its parallel sides curve outward as they near the base. Triangular base and straight top. One hole. Dark red slate. Rare. 5 inches long.
- 109 Seneca co., O. Sides sloping outward near the base, terminating into curved points, top and base ends straight. One hole, one point broken off. Purple slate. 4 inches long.
- 110 Knox Co., O.  $1\frac{3}{4}$  inches wide at top, straight sides, which widen at lower end to  $2\frac{1}{4}$  inches, triangular notch on upper end and square notch on lower end. One perforation in centre. Sandstone. Rare form.
- 111 Haysville, O. Usual form. Unusual large hole,  $\frac{1\frac{1}{2}}{16}$  inch diameter, straight line carved above the hole on one side. Slate.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  inches long.
- 112 Haysville, O. Same form. Perforation not so large. Slate.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  inches long.
- 113 Seneca co., O. Same form. One hole. 4 inches long.
- 114 Fulton co., O. Same form. One hole.  $4\frac{7}{8}$  inches long.
- 115 Tiffin, O. Oval ends, square notch on each side,  $1\frac{1}{8}$  long  $\times \frac{8}{16}$  deep, length of implement  $5\frac{1}{4}$ . Imperfect, but desirable on account of rare shape. Two holes. Slate.
- 116 Henry co., O. Sides slightly concaved, both ends rounded. One hole near center. Slate.  $4\frac{1}{4}$ .
- 117 Seneca co., O. Usual form. Small size. One hole. 3 inches long.
- 118 Allen co., Ind. Long and thin. Two holes. Rather rude. 2 pieces.
- 119 Allen co., Ind. Rude lot of various shapes, mostly imperfect. 7 pieces.

- 182 Plummet(?) Stone. Egg shape. Two longitudinal grooves running parallel on top of butt. Attempt at perforation to connect the two grooves. 2 in. long. Rare.
- 183 Stone Ball. Allen co., Ind.  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. diameter. Rare so large.
- 184 Stone Ball. Allen co., Ind. Small sizes. One flattened on sides. 2 pieces.
- 185 Stone Ball. Blair co., Pa.  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches diameter. Rare from this locality.
- 186 Conical shape implement, probably a grinder. Stone.  $3\frac{1}{4}$  inches high  $\times$   $3\frac{3}{8}$  inches diameter at base.
- 187 Polisher. Findlay O. Mottled green granite. Half spherical in form.  $1\frac{1}{4}$  high. Rare.
- 188 Knives or scrapers. Allen co., Ind. Red jasper, etc. Rude lot. 3 pieces.
- 189 Knives or scrapers. Seneca co., O. Jasper. Neater finish than preceding. 2 pieces.
- 190 Flesher or chisel. Fulton co., O. Black stone. Smoothly and symmetrically finished, pointed top, the bottom worked to a sharp edge. One of the finest that I have ever seen. Very slender. 10 inches long. Rare.
- 191 Flesher or chisel. Defiance co., O. Dark granite. Perfectly finished.  $6\frac{1}{2}$  inches long.
- 192 Wedge. Henry co., O. Dark, speckled granite. One side flat, one side rounded, pointed at top, sharp edge. Fine example.  $5\frac{3}{4}$  inches long.
- 193 Bullet mould. Half section, from Seneca co., O. Polished black stone. 3 mould depressions of different diameters, also 2 drilled perforations, the same as found in banner-stones. [Does not the presence of these two holes in an implement of this kind curiously and impressively suggest that banner-stones and all like objects were put to some practical use, and not merely worn as decorative features at ceremonies and other like occasions?] Interesting and desirable on account of showing the marked progress in war weapons in the hands of the Indians as civilization began to eluster around them.

- 194 Perforated implement like the banner-stone objects, but of a very remarkable form, being quarter spherical, with sides slightly oblique, two holes drilled through from base to rounded side.  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in. wide at top,  $1\frac{1}{8}$  wide at base, 3 in. long,  $1\frac{1}{4}$  high. Sandstone from Seneca co.
- 195 Bead. Polished ivory. Taken from a mound at Kansor. Fine workmanship.  $4\frac{1}{2}$  in. long. Perforation through the entire length. Of the highest rarity.
- 196 Bead. Duplicate. Equally fine and rare.
- 197 Bead. Duplicate. Equally fine and rare.
- 198 Flint-like implement. Use unknown, apparently a knife.  $5\frac{1}{2}$  in. long x  $1\frac{1}{4}$  wide in centre, graduating to two sharp points. Only specimen that I have ever seen.
- 199 Hatchet. Sides beveled flush to the body. Perfect. Found with other mound relics in Henry co., O. Copper. Exceedingly rare, as all copper implements are, coated with a dark-green patination. 3 inches long.

CURIOUS CEREMONIAL OBJECTS.

- 200 Fulton co., O. Green soapstone. A very unusual form, being in shape a double crescent and brought to a sharp edge at its two sides, one point slightly imperfect, one perforation drilled through the connecting band or joint. The Smithsonian Institute have declared this implement to be of the highest rarity. It is certainly a remarkable piece and was probably an insignia of rank of some chief. Excessively rare.
  - 201 Banner-stone. Seneca co., O. Soapstone. Wide flanges similar in shape to a cocked hat, longitudinal arch in centre, through which passes a drilled hole for a handle, deeply notched at top and base of arch. Neat specimen.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  x 3.
  - 202 Banner-stone. Hancock co., O. Same character, larger, but not so perfect.
  - 203 Banner-stone. Seneca co., O. Same character, but not notched, slightly clipped.
  - 204 Banner-stone. Seneca co., O. Same as preceding, imperfect.
  - 205 Banner-stone. Henry co., O. Similar, but more elongated, ends pointed. Very rude.
  - 206 Banner-stone. Fulton co., O. Same, but ends rounded and blunt, piece chipped off one side.
  - 207 Implement resembling a pick. Grained soapstone. Drilled in centre for handle, points broken off.  $3\frac{3}{4}$  in. long. Rare.
  - 208 Similar object from Seneca co. More rounded and nearly perfect.  $3\frac{1}{2}$  in. long.
  - 209 Defiance co., O. Bow handle. Supposed to be tied in the centre of the bow. Reddish slate. Flat bottom, straight ends, rounded from side to side, one perforation at each end drilled slantingly through to the bottom.  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long. Rare.
  - 210 Seneca co., O. Similar object. Soapstone.  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in. long. Rare.
  - 211 Hancock co., O.? The same. Narrow groove connecting the two perforations on bottom side. Soapstone.  $2\frac{3}{4}$  in. long.
  - 212 Allen co., Ind. The same. Soapstone.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  in. long. One end broken off.
  - 213 Seneca co., O. An object that I am unable to classify, resembling in shape a canoe, two perforations, hollowed out inside. Soapstone.  $3\frac{1}{4}$  in. long.
  - 214 Seneca co., O. The same not hollowed out, and so, probably, only in a secondary stage of finish, two perforations. Soapstone.  $4\frac{5}{8}$  in. long.
  - 215 Fish found on the banks of the Maumee River. Henry co., O. Brownstone. Probably used as a net knitter. 5 in. long. One of the rarest examples in the collection.
- [The following 7 lots are head ornaments.]
- 216 Bird. Seneca co., O. Projecting eyes, head and tail elevated, body somewhat flat and expanded, as if the object was floating upon water, ridge at each end of the body underneath, through which pass an oblique perforation; small piece clipped from the tail, but not sufficient to mar the beauty of the piece. Slate. 5 in. long. Excessively rare.

- 217 Duck. Found by S. Warner, of Hicksville township, Defiance co., Ohio. Elongated head with slightly protruding eyes, long, slim body, expanded tail, an oblique perforation at each end of the body; position the same as the preceding, as will be found in the following 5 lots. Striped slate. Highly finished and not the slightest imperfection.  $5\frac{7}{8}$  in. long. Equally as rare as the above.
- 218 Duck. Same form, but the head more rounded and has no eyes; perforations the same. Slate. Perfect. From the Ulrich collection.  $4\frac{3}{4}$  in. long.
- 219 Duck. Similar to the last and from the same collection; perforations the same. Brown slate. Perfect. 4 in. long. Very rare.
- 220 Bird. Same character as last, but with projecting eyes; perforations the same. Black striped slate. Allen co., Ind. Perfect.  $4\frac{1}{4}$  in. long. Very rare.
- 221 Saddle-like implement of the same general character as the preceding. Imperfect head and tail. Perforations the same. Slate. 3 inches long.
- 222 Bird, probably of the duck species. Different from any of the above. Head with mouth and projecting eyes. No tail. Oblique perforations. Perfect. Polished soapstone of a drab color. One of the most rare and desirable pieces in the collection.
- 223 Tube, found by H. J. Wilson, Hicksville, Defiance county, O. Streaked soapstone. One end slightly imperfect. 6 inches long. Rare.
- 224 Tube, found by John Smith, of Wyandotte county, O. Green soapstone. One end slightly imperfect. 4 inches long. Rare.
- 225 Tube, from the Ulrich collection. Green soapstone. Perfect.  $4\frac{1}{8}$  inches long. Rare.
- 226 Tube. Slight longitudinal groove on under side. Soapstone. Seneca county, O. Perfect.  $3\frac{3}{4}$  inches long.
- 227 Tube, from the Ulrich collection. Soapstone. Imperfect.  $3\frac{5}{8}$  inches long.
- 228 Tube, from same collection. Broader than usual, and somewhat flattened on one side. Soapstone. Perfect.  $3\frac{1}{2}$  inches long.
- 229 Tube. Grayish soapstone. One end broken. Defiance county, O.  $3\frac{1}{8}$  inches long.
- 230 An object of similar character. Round. Longitudinal groove on one side. Perforation started at one end, and drilled to a depth of  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch. Light granite. From Allen county, Ind.  $3\frac{3}{4}$  inches long x  $1\frac{3}{4}$  wide. Perfect and Rare.
- 231 Tube-like object, somewhat rounded in form. This, and the next following four lots were probably unfinished pipes. Hole drilled to a depth of  $1\frac{1}{8}$  inches. Maysville, Ind. Green soapstone. No defects.  $3 \times 2\frac{1}{2}$  inches.
- 232 Tube-like object, similar to last, but perforation drilled entirely through. Symmetrically formed, with one side flat. Greenish-gray soapstone. Holmes county, O. No defects.  $3\frac{1}{8} \times 2\frac{3}{4}$ .
- 233 Similar object, from Seneca county. More rounded in form than the last. Perforation through the body is unskillfully done. Green soapstone.  $2\frac{1}{2} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ .
- 234 Similar object. Much broader than last. Drilled through. Locality unknown. Soapstone. Imperfect.  $1\frac{5}{8} \times 1\frac{3}{4}$ .
- 235 Similar object. Nearly round, with one side concaved, drilled through. Soapstone. Seneca county. imperfect.  $1\frac{1}{4} \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ .

PIPES, ETC.

- 236 Pipe, found by F. A. Altman, Fulton county, O. Polished black basaltic rock. The bowl of this pipe is cylindrical in shape. The base, which is drilled for the stem, is oblong, with the sides and corners neatly rounded down. The neck concaved. Below the base extends a flange, through which is drilled a hole for suspension, on the back of the bowl, which would be facing the smoker, is a remarkably well-carved Indian face, with exception of an indenture on one side of the base, which is a flaw in the stone, and not the result of unskilled work. This example is otherwise perfect, symmetrically formed, and undoubtedly ancient. Height of bowl  $\frac{1}{8} \times 1$  inch in diameter. Length of base  $1\frac{3}{8}$  inches. Total height  $2\frac{3}{4}$  inches. Exceedingly rare.

- 237 Pipe, found by James Scott, of Milford township, Defiance county, O. Green soapstone. The bowl round, with perpendicular sides, has no neck, but merges into the base, the latter being of slightly greater diameter. No defects.  $2\frac{7}{8}$  inches high x  $1\frac{3}{8}$  greatest diameter. Ancient. Desirable and very rare.
- 238 Pipe, found by Crist. Gipe, of Spring Hill, Fulton county, O. Round bowl with perpendicular sides, has a projecting base, which was evidently intended as a stem or mouth-piece, but not sufficient material being allowed for drilling by our red brother, he abandoned his first intention, and made an outlet from the bowl by chipping off a small piece from the lower front of the pipe. Soft grayish soapstone. Ancient. A fine example of an Indian's ingenuity.  $1\frac{3}{8}$  inches high x  $\frac{9}{16}$  diameter.
- 239 Pipe. Seneca county, O. Square bowl and base. Sandstone. About  $1\frac{1}{2}$  square at each end. Length and height  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches. Portion of bowl broken off.
- 240 Pipe. Blair, DeKalb county, Ind. Ball shape, slight groove encircling the body. Sandstone or light granite. Perfect, and rather rude.  $1\frac{3}{8}$  inches high,  $2\frac{7}{8}$  inches long,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches wide. Ancient. Rare.
- 241 Pipe. Ashland, county, O. Perfect little antique pipe of dark-brown stone. Only  $1\frac{3}{4}$  inches high.
- 242 Pipe of dark-red pipestone, found at Maumee river, Henry county, O. Base ornamented by a lead band. Not so ancient as preceding. Perfect. 2 inches high.
- 243 Curious shape pipe, from the Ullrich collection. Somewhat of a spike form. Light-red pipestone. Modern. No defects.
- 244 Pipe. Arizona. Hard dark stone. The stem is  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches long. The bowl rises from about  $\frac{2}{3}$  way down the stem to a height of  $2\frac{3}{4}$  inches. Top of bowl and each end of stem embellished by inserted lead bands. No defects. Desirable. Modern.
- 245 Pipe-stem. Probably belonging to the above. Wood. Elaborately ornamented by a carved vine. 16 inches long.
- 246 Tomahawk and pipe combined. Seneca county, O. Iron. Perfect.  $7\frac{1}{2}$  inches long.
- 247 Tomahawk and pipe combined. Seneca county, O. Iron. The pipe brass. Perfect.  $6\frac{1}{2}$  inches long.
- 248 Tomahawk from the Ullrich collection. Iron. Perfect.  $6\frac{1}{2}$  inches long.
- 249 Tomahawk. Indiana. Iron. Perfect.  $5\frac{3}{4}$  inches long.
- 250 Tomahawk with handle and spear-point combined. Chester county, Pa. Entirely different from preceding. Iron. From tip of spear to point of handle 13 inches. The foregoing 5 lots were probably made by the early settlers for the Indian's use in the French-Canadian war.
